

Things Fall Apart

Written at Stroud Green Road, Autumn 2000. Recorded in one take, just me on guitar and vocal in November of that year at the end of a long demo session at La Rocka, Jude engineering. This became The Teflon Song - nothing would stick to it. Tried a band version. Didn't work. Polly recorded fantastic harmonies. Still not right. In the end we used the demo. Borrowing a 16 Track Fostex machine from La Rocka, Ian transferred the quarter inch tape to the digital domain. Hats off to Tom for cleaning it up too. Top work.
